(3) The reference in subsection (1) to a law that requires a signature includes a reference to a law that provides consequences for the absence of a signature.

8. Section 10 repealed

Section 10 of the Principal Act is repealed.
9. Section 11 substituted

Section 11 of the Principal Act is repealed and the following sections are substituted:

11. Time of dispatch

(1) For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction, unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of an electronic communication, the time of dispatch of the electronic communication is –

(a) the time when the electronic communication leaves an information system under the control of the originator or of the party who sent it on behalf of the originator; or

(b) if the electronic communication has not left an information system under the control of the originator or of the party who sent it on behalf of the originator, the time when the electronic communication is received by the addressee.

(2) Subsection (1) applies even though the place where the information system supporting an electronic address is located may be different from the place where the electronic communication is taken to have been dispatched under section 11B.
11A. Time of receipt

(1) For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction, unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of an electronic communication –

(a) the time of receipt of the electronic communication is the time when the electronic communication becomes capable of being retrieved by the addressee at an electronic address designated by the addressee; or

(b) the time of receipt of the electronic communication at another electronic address of the addressee is the time when both –

(i) the electronic communication has become capable of being retrieved by the addressee at that address; and

(ii) the addressee has become aware that the electronic communication has been sent to that address.

(2) For the purposes of subsection (1), unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of the electronic communication, it is to be assumed that the electronic communication is capable of being retrieved by the addressee when it reaches the addressee’s electronic address.

(3) Subsection (1) applies even though the place where the information system supporting an electronic address is located may be different from the place where the electronic communication is taken to have been received under section 11B.

11B. Place of dispatch and place of receipt

(1) For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction, unless otherwise agreed between the originator and the addressee of an electronic communication –

(a) the electronic communication is taken to have been dispatched at the place where the originator has its place of business; and

(b) the electronic communication is taken to have been received at the place where the addressee has its place of business.

(2) For the purposes of the application of subsection (1) to an electronic communication –

(a) a party’s place of business is assumed to be the location indicated by that party, unless another party demonstrates that the party making the indication
(b) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has only one place of business, it is to be assumed that that place is the party’s place of business; and

(c) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has more than one place of business, the place of business is that which has the closest relationship to the underlying transaction, having regard to the circumstances known to or contemplated by the parties at any time before or at the conclusion of the transaction; and

(d) if a party has not indicated a place of business and has more than one place of business, but paragraph (c) does not apply, it is to be assumed that the party’s principal place of business is the party’s only place of business; and

(e) if a party is a natural person and does not have a place of business, it is to be assumed that the party’s place of business is the place of the party’s habitual residence.
(3) A location is not a place of business merely because it is—

(a) where equipment and technology supporting an information system used by a party are located; or

(b) where that information system may be accessed by other parties.

(4) The sole fact that a party makes use of a domain name or electronic mail address connected to a specific country does not create a presumption that its place of business is located in that country.

10. Section 12 amended (Attribution of electronic communications)

Section 12 of the Principal Act is amended by omitting subsections (3) and (4).

11. Part 2A inserted

After section 12 of the Principal Act, the following Part is inserted:
PART 2A – ADDITIONAL PROVISIONS APPLYING TO CONTRACTS INVOLVING ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS

12A. Application and operation of this Part

This Part applies to the use of electronic communications in connection with the formation or performance of a contract between parties where the proper law of the contract is (or would on its formation be) the law of this jurisdiction, and so applies –

(a) whether some or all of the parties are located within Australia or elsewhere; and

(b) whether the contract is for business purposes, for personal, family or household purposes, or for other purposes.

12B. Invitation to treat regarding contracts

(1) A proposal to form a contract made through one or more electronic communications that –

(a) is not addressed to one or more specific parties; and

(b) is generally accessible to parties making use of information systems –
(1) A message is to be considered as an invitation to make offers, unless it clearly indicates the intention of the party making the proposal to be bound in case of acceptance.

(2) Subsection (1) extends to proposals that make use of interactive applications for the placement of orders through information systems.

12C. Use of automated message systems for contract formation – non-intervention of natural person

A contract formed by –

(a) the interaction of an automated message system and a natural person; or

(b) the interaction of automated message systems –

is not invalid, void or unenforceable on the sole ground that no natural person reviewed or intervened in each of the individual actions carried out by the automated message systems or the resulting contract.
12D. Error in electronic communications regarding contracts

(1) This section applies in relation to a statement, declaration, demand, notice or request, including an offer and the acceptance of an offer, that the parties are required to make or choose to make in connection with the formation or performance of a contract.

(2) If—

(a) a natural person makes an input error in an electronic communication exchanged with the automated message system of another party; and

(b) the automated message system does not provide the person with an opportunity to correct the error—

the person, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, has the right to withdraw the portion of the electronic communication in which the input error was made if—

(c) the person, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, notifies the other party of the error as soon as possible after having learned of the error and indicates that he or she made an error in the electronic communication; and

(d) the person, or the party on whose behalf the person was acting, has not used or received any material benefit or value from the goods or services, if any, received from the other party.

(3) The right of withdrawal of a portion of an electronic communication under this section is not of itself a right to rescind or otherwise terminate a contract.

(4) The consequences (if any) of the exercise of the right of withdrawal of a portion of an electronic communication under this section are to be determined in accordance with any applicable rule of law.

12E. Application of Act in relation to contracts

(1) Subject to subsection (2), the provisions of sections 5, 11, 11A and 11B apply to –

(a) a transaction constituted by or relating to a contract; or

(b) an electronic communication relating to the formation or performance of a contract –

in the same way as they apply to a transaction or electronic communication referred to in Part 2, and so apply as if the words “For the purposes of a law of this jurisdiction” and “under a law of this jurisdiction” were omitted.

(2) However, this Part (including subsection (1)) does not apply to or in relation to a contract to the extent that –

(a) Part 2 would of its own force have the same effect as this Part if this Part applied; or

(b) a law of another State or a Territory (that is in substantially the same terms as Part 2) would of its own force have the same effect as this Part if this Part applied.

12. Section 13A inserted

After section 13 of the Principal Act, the following section is inserted in Part 3:

13A. Transitional provisions – Electronic Transactions Amendment Act 2010

(1) Regulations made under this Act before the commencement of section 4A and in force immediately before that commencement continue in force as if that section had been in force when they were made.

(2) Subject to subsection (3) –
(a) section 12B extends to proposals made before the commencement date; and

(b) section 12C extends to actions carried out before the commencement date; and

(c) section 12D extends to statements, declarations, demands, notices or requests, including offers and the acceptance of offers, made or given before the commencement date.

(3) Subsection (2) and Part 2A do not apply in relation to contracts formed before the commencement date.

(4) In subsections (2) and (3) –

“commencement date” means the date of commencement of Part 2A.

13. Repeal of Act

This Act is repealed on the ninetieth day from the day on which all of the provisions of this Act commence.
