One edit

Tasracing is pleased to advise that TasInsure, a Tasmanian insurer that will be established by a Liberal Government if re-elected, will provide workers' compensation insurance among its products that is expected to be applicable for racing industry participants.

While Tasracing appreciates that this mostly affects the thoroughbred code, we felt it appropriate to write to the industry as a whole about the initiative.

We will continue to keep you updated on developments as they relate to today's (2 July) insurance announcement, but believe it is a positive development that could assist participants with business operating costs.
