Subject: No one should be punished for telling the truth

Dear Inquiry into Discrimination and Bullying in Tasmanian Schools,

Do not allow the activists to hide the truth behind labelling this inquiry as anti-bullying. It is their gender ideology promoted in Tasmanian schools that is causing more bullying and discrimination. This ideology goes against biological facts and creates a space where factual scientific information is disregarded. School policies should recognize biological truths and safeguard individuals from ideological coercion. No one can alter their biological sex. No one should be penalised for stating the truth. They've created a society where many are afraid to speak for fear of 'offending' regardless whether it's truth that has been spoken. This fear will only deter more and more from wanting to be teachers, and we already have a shortage of teachers!

Sincerely,

[REDACTED]
