

National Disability Insurance Scheme

Mr BEHRAKIS question to MINISTER for DISABILITY SERVICES

There are thousands of Tasmanians who live with a disability. The National Disability Insurance Scheme is critical to many of those Tasmanians for their ongoing support and wellbeing. How many Tasmanians living with disability are now active participants in the scheme and can you provide the number of total active Tasmanian NDIS participants who have not previously received support through the Commonwealth or state government programs in the past? Additionally, can you provide an update on the NDIS review, particularly around what the foundation support system will look like?
