

Solar Energy Battery Storage Trials – Franklin

Mrs PETRUSMA question to MINISTER for PARKS and ENVIRONMENT

I recently heard about a neighbourhood battery trial currently taking place in Queensland. This trial consists of the installation of batteries to power poles at ground level to help encourage residents to store the energy they generate from solar panels. On behalf of the many constituents in my electorate of Franklin who will be very interested in this renewable energy initiative, can the minister please advise if any initiatives exist in Tasmania that will likewise support residents to store the electricity they generate from solar? If so, how can the community access this?
