GOVERNMENT NOTICE.

No. 86.

Colonial Secretary's Office, 24th May, 1870.

THE Governor in Council has been pleased to make the following Regulations under and by virtue of "The Salmon Act," and to rescind those hitherto in force.

1. No person shall fish or take fish in any manner in the River Plenty, in the River Styx, in the River Clyde, in the Lachlan Rivulet, in the Sorell Rivulet, in the Bagdad Rivulet, all being tributaries of the River Derwent, or in the River Huon above Mosquito Point, or in the Meredith River in Tasmania, under a penalty of Ten Pounds for each breach of this Regulation.

2. All nets and other engines, instruments, or devices used for taking fish in the above-mentioned Rivers or Rivulets shall be seized and forfeited, destroyed, or removed as each case may require.

3. It shall be lawful for any person to use a seine net, with meshes measuring two inches and one-half of an inch from knot to knot when wet, for the purpose of taking fish in the River Derwent, after such person shall have obtained a certificate under the hand of the Chairman of the Salmon Commissioners setting forth that such seine net has been examined by the Salmon Commissioners.

4. No person shall be allowed to use any other net for the purpose of fishing in the waters of the River Derwent, or any of its tributaries above a line extending from Battery Point on the western to Kangaroo Point Bluff on the eastern bank of the said River, under a penalty of Ten Pounds for each breach of this Regulation.

5. All nets used in contravention of the foregoing Regulations shall be seized and forfeited, destroyed, or removed as each case may require.

The above Regulations to take effect from this date.

By His Excellency's Command,

JAMES MILNE WILSON.
