Subject: Submission to the Joint Select Committee on Future Gaming Markets

Dear Members of the Committee, The undeniable evidence is that pokies and gambling cause serious social and health problems. These problems require government funds in the way of health funding and social security payments and support to cope with the damage. It is perverse economic policy to continue to believe that governments need gambling revenue to then address the problems gambling has created. You might not like Wilkie and Xenophon, but we all need to listen to what they are saying about the negative social and health impacts of gambling. John McKenna

Yours sincerely, John McKenna
