Inclusive Practice Team

Mr MITCHELL question to MINISTER for EDUCATION

My constituent is a member of the Inclusive Practice Team and she's been a teacher for almost 25 years. My constituent notes that the team is facing unprecedented budget cuts and valued team members face the axe. There's already been two change proposals, but the team is no closer to knowing how the team will be cut and who will lose their jobs. Aggression and violence, students with complex needs, students living with trauma - these are all on the rise after 13 years of failed Liberal Government. The Inclusive Practice Team is already under pressure but it faces cuts, not support. My constituent supports 12 schools across the north, but the cuts will see support revert to reactive triage. Minster, the Inclusive Practice Team is at breaking point. Why aren't you helping it do its vital work instead of cutting it?
