Subject: Ambulance ramping

Good morning,

I'm very concerned about the increasing deterioration of the Tasmania's hospital service to our community.

Ambulance ramping has only gotten worse, and the direct and negative health impacts on patients both in ambulances and in the hospital itself is very disturbing. A 15 hour ramp can and does have deadly consequences.

The state government's response over 9 years to this important issue has only gotten dramatically worse. Why would any potential interstate ambulance medic consider work in Tasmania when is pay under mainland salaries. This is just one example across the whole hospital system.

Sincerely

Greg Drury-Sinclair
