MEMORANDUM.

THESE Returns were compiled by J. E. Calder, Surveyor-General, and Messrs. H. E. Smith, H. J. Hull, and Alexander Reid, of the Survey Department.

P R E F A C E.

THE Returns contained in the following pages, though illustrative of the settlement of Tasmania since its first occupation in 1804, are more particularly devoted to its progress for the period subsequent to the passing of "The Waste Lands Act," at the beginning of 1858. The occasion is, therefore, a fitting one for reviewing the advances of Agriculture, and the transactions of trade in farm produce, since that event, which must have exercised since little influence on both.

With this view, I have compiled two tables (given at the end of this preface) from the most reliable documents within reach—namely, the Official Statistics of the Colony: the first one showing the state of trade in the articles of farm produce since the beginning of 1857,—which year I have introduced to show how things stood just before the Act came into force*,—and the second, the gross annual yield of our cultivated lands during the same space; from which we may gather, almost at a glance, everything we can desire to know of these most important matters, in so far as figures can instruct us in the same.

The Statistics inform us that, at the end of 1857, the area of our cultivated lands was 206,120 acres, and at the end of 1861, 248,064; showing an increase of 41,944 acres, or much about 10,500 a year. Of the 41,944 acres in question, it is probable that 30,000 were entirely new lands, for, though there is no return for 1858, the "lands newly broken up" during the three following years show an aggregate of 22,962 acres, which justifies the belief that the quantity stated is not very far from the truth.

Of the Tables given in the preface, the one shows a still increasing production of farm supplies and the other a partial declension of the exports of the same,—a seeming incongruity requiring notice,

In explanation, I think it quite possible that the maintenance of farm operations on their present scale, even with diminished exports, may be quite consistent with reason and prudence. It is indeed, a necessity of the times, arising out of the exigencies of our own home market heretofore too largely supplied from abroad with nearly all articles of ordinary sustenance.

This diminution of Exports, and indeed of prices also, caused by the very rapid extension of culture during the past two years,† here and elsewhere, are not therefore producing all the evil consequences which cursory observers of events may imagine; for our farmers, finding the foreign markets less remunerative now than in bygone times, for grain and potatoes, appear to be changing the direction of their industry, and to be entering into a pretty successful competition with the English exporter of articles of food to this market; from which they are in a very fair way of expelling him. At the same time they have entered into the markets of the neighboring Colonies with supplies heretofore derived almost wholly from Europe.

Thus it appears that last year we disposed of £10,739 worth of DAIRY PRODUCE in the various markets of Australia, New Zealand, and the Mauritius, receiving in Imports of the same only £4,213 worth,—which shows a vastly improved condition of things over the times just preceding the passing of our Lands Act, when we imported in the single year 1857 almost exactly as much dairy supplies as in all the four succeeding years together; namely, £24,489 worth in the one year, and £24,749 in the other four.

* I was desirous of taking four years instead of one, for the purposes of comparison, but was defeated by the extraordinary imperfections of the Statistics for the years 1855 and 1857, which are entirely silent on the subject of trade.

† Since 1859, South Australia, Victoria, and Tasmania, have increased the breadths of their ploughed lands by 234,440 acres; the entire scope in tillage, in all three Colonies, being now 1,029,230 acres.

It is gratifying to learn that the soils of Tasmania are more prolific than the oft-mentioned ones of South Australia, and even more so than those of Victoria herself. The following figures, showing the average yield per acre, in 1861, of the chief articles of farm produce, are extracted from the Statistical Registers of the Colonies they relate to:—

‡ Taken from the Agricultural Statistics of Victoria, as copied into the (Melbourne) Economist newspaper.

NOTE.—In the above calculations I have adopted the legal weights of Tasmania; namely,—wheat 60, barley 50, and oats 40lbs. the bushel; for potatoes and hay, the long ton.

The next articles that claim attention are those ranged under the heading of Mill Produce; namely, Bran and Flour; the sales of both of which appear to exhibit a great declension since 1857. But this view of the case is only partly correct, nor does it show that the neighbouring markets are closing against us in any thing like the degree which we are apt to suppose from this particular section of the Table. For taking it in conjunction with the Wheat exports, it will be seen, that in 1861 we sent away 44,142 bushels more than in 1858, and 114,983 more than in 1857; which transactions, though they do not restore the balance in our favor, incline it very greatly toward us again.

The supplies received in return were very small in comparison with our sales. In Bran there was nothing whatever, while in Flour the relation between purchases and sales was as 1 to 24.

The exported quantity of Orchard Produce is a very considerable and, on the whole, an increasing item of our trade; the sales of the same for last year amounting to 118,703 bushels and packages, of an estimated value of £50,816, against 2,620 packages (probably oranges) valued at £3,015; leaving us a balance of £47,801.

In Grain, our Exports are still increasing in face of low prices; no less than 755,082 bushels having been sent away. Of Wheat a much larger quantity was disposed of abroad in 1861 than in any former year.

The Grain crops of Tasmania stood as under, last year:—

Wheat.....	1,380,913	bushels, from	72,773	acres.
Oats.....	751,475	bushels, from	29,022	acres.
Barley.....	169,381	bushels, from	7,279	acres.
TOTAL.....	2,301,769		109,074

The crop of Wheat was in excess of Home and Foreign requirements by probably 140,000 bushels. Thus, for our own population of 90,211 about 720,000* bushels would be required, and 140,000 for seed; which added to 270,393 bushels exported, and about 115,000 more converted into Flour, also for Export, will make a total of rather more than 1,245,000 bushels consumed and disposed of out of the quantity grown.

The cultivation of Hay seems kept up, in spite of the declining Exports of the same, to a very high figure;—very nearly 60,000 tons having been cut last season, of which only 466 went out of the Country. There is, however, probably no loss on this crop; for what with our increasing dairy establishments, taken conjunctively with the decay of the principal root crop of the farm,—the growth of this article was probably not overdone. The average yield per acre was 1 ton 17 cwt. and 68 lbs.; being a much better return than in any preceding year (except the last one) for Ten years back at least.

Of Vegetables, principally Potatoes, our farmers enable us to send away about 8,000 tons a year, while the quantity we receive back in return is altogether too insignificant for notice. Those, however, who are curious in small matters may find it in the Table at the end.

While on the subject of the Root Crops of the Country; the failure of Turnips, which is more and more visible every year, cannot escape notice. Ten years ago the recorded weight of this crop was 32,188 tons. In 1857 it had fallen to 14,520, and last year it reached 4,951 tons only. This failure is neither ascribable to bad tillage nor inferior soils, but to the ravages of the fly, for which no cure has been discovered. The culture of this root seems dwindling down till each year shows a nearer approach to extinction than was visible in the preceding one. The failure of this crop is probably one cause of the rapid increase there has been of late in the growth of Hay and Mangold Wurtzel; which has enabled our farmers not only to keep their footing in the markets of Tasmania, but to strengthen it also, as I shall show they are doing most successfully (notwithstanding the statements to the contrary) by turning to the stock supplies of the Colony, and to certain Returns obtained at the Corporation Slaughter-yards, which prove that the loss in this branch of trade has been egregiously exaggerated, and that the reproaches so liberally heaped on our farmers on account of their supineness in doing so little to repress the consumption of foreign meat are most unjust.

The statement generally put forth, and as generally accepted, on the subject of the loss the Country sustains on account of its trade in live stock is, that it amounts to about £80,000 a year; which is greatly in excess of fact, the real loss at present being £35,162 only.

* According to M'Culloch, the consumption of wheat in England is 8 bushels per head. Here it is thought by some not to be so much; but the careless and wasteful habits of large numbers of the people probably bring it up to M'Culloch's standard; even though it be not all used for food. The official Statist of Victoria, after a careful discussion of the subject, inclines to M'Culloch's rate for that Colony; and it may be pretty safely adopted for ourselves.

The yearly arrivals of sheep and cattle here are, no doubt, very considerable ; and a large efflux of money takes place on account thereof. Great however as the effusion is, it is much reduced on account of horses, whereof we sell about a thousand a year ; which diminishes the account so greatly that the true balance against us is what I have stated. That balance is, however, so lessening every year that its extinction may be looked for at no remote date.

In watching the downward progress of this great branch of our import trade, it is satisfactory to observe how rapidly it has gone to decay even in the brief period of five years. Thus, in the purchase of horned cattle we spent no less than £72,278 in 1857, which last year cost us only £48,692. In the same space, the decrease in our purchases of sheep has been the difference between £42,235 and £30,807. In actual numbers of stock imported, the decrease has been 1,056 cattle and 4,525 sheep ; the sets off against which are our own exports of the same, amounting to £49,086 in the year last past.

That this subject might not want due illustration to prove that our farmers are not quite so apathetic as some of us are too apt to describe them, I have ascertained, from registers kept at the Corporation Slaughter-yards of this City, the quantities of stock killed there since the beginning of 1860 down to the 30th of last month, or for 30 consecutive months, and have discovered, that of 130,240 animals slaughtered there for the principal markets of the south, 70,697 were from the stock of the Colony. The following is an authentic record of the Slaughter in this City :—

	1860.		1861.		1862, Six Months only.
	Tasmanian Stock.	Imported Stock.	Tasmanian Stock.	Imported Stock.	Tasmanian Stock.	Imported Stock.
Pigs.....	2,418	none	2,650	10	1,950	none
Lambs....	5,470	none	6,787	none	3,907	none
Calves....	750	none	756	9	305	none
Sheep.....	12,221	24,848	15,390	19,603	14,040	4,256
Cattle....	796	4,495	1,663	4,450	1,594	1,872
	21,655	29,343	27,246	24,072	21,796	6,128

It will be seen, that in 1860 the imported stock slaughtered exceeded the Tasmanian by 8,686. But so completely are the tables turned now, that in the first six months of the present year the slaughter of Tasmanian stock exceeded the imported by the very large number of 15,668. Of horned cattle of Tasmanian stock the numbers consumed are doubling every year.

These figures will be accepted by all as a proof that a great change is working in the stock market, and which must, before long, leave it wholly in the hands of our own people. The same figures further teach us, that there is still a good opening for enterprise, even in Tasmania, and that remunerative markets may be found for some of our produce without going away from home to seek them.

The last item in the Trade Table is the prime export of this Colony, Wool ; which, in money value, is nearly equal to half the agricultural export produce of the country ; its declared value at the Ports of shipment having reached the enormous sum of £1,953,752 in five years.

It is much to be regretted that, owing to a mistaken method adopted in the compilation of our Agricultural Statistics, it is not possible to ascertain the true yearly produce of Wool. This is caused by adapting the statistical to the ordinary year,—an arrangement wholly unsuited to the Southern Hemisphere, or at any rate in so far as it relates to this great article of trade. The operations of shearing, pressing, and transporting to the places of shipment are never finished throughout the Colony until the year of produce is passed. Hence a large, but ever varying, proportion of the clip of every season, not reaching the coast till the beginning of the year after it was cut, passes the Customs, and thus runs into the returns of the wrong year. Thus, a late shearing one year followed by an early one next, necessarily confuses the account ; and large quantities of the produce of two years then find their way into the Registers of one only. To illustrate this, take the clip of the year 1857, when there were 1,912,423 sheep in the Colony, and we find it was lighter by about 856,000 pounds than it was in 1859, when there were not so many sheep by 215,224 to shear. But this incongruity never would have appeared in the records of agricultural trade if the accounts of the exports of this article were made up, as they are in New South Wales, Victoria, and South Australia, where the Statistical Year commences, on the 1st of April.

In the three Colonies above named, the inconvenience of adapting the Statistical to the Common Year for wool, and some other articles, was long since discovered, and remedied as explained above; whereby the exports of live wool are all so registered as to enable any one to ascertain the progressiveness of this important branch of commerce.

Here, however, this can only be done by a comparison of periods instead of years which may be supposed to produce a fair delineation of the state of trade at different times. But this is not such an easy task to perform as it may seem to be, on account of the great imperfection of our Statistics of trade for the years 1855 and 1856. Any information required on these subjects, for the above years, must be obtained by direct application at the Customs Offices of both Hobart Town and Launceston.

In a matter so interesting to the Country, I shall be pardoned giving the figures, obtained as above stated, that represent the wool exports of the last ten years; which I believe were never wholly published before. I have separated them into two equal periods for convenience of inspection and comparison.

The picture is instructive, if not very gratifying. The remarkable similarity of the totals of the "quantity" columns reveals facts that are neither to be mistaken nor confuted. The first is, that the Wool Trade of Tasmania has made no advance whatever in ten years; while the second declares to us, as plainly as figures can speak, that her occupied pastures are stocked to the uttermost for the support of sheep, cattle, and horses, which, on a rough average of 10 years, seem generally to amount about 2,000,000 of sheep and 100,000 horses and cattle. The first figures fix the limit of wool production at about 5,000,000 pounds a year, beyond which the experience of 10 years informs us that we cannot advance a step in the present state of our pastures.*

These figures contain enough to set the most unreflecting heads at work to discover if there be no means as yet untried of increasing the wool supplies of the Colony. The first and most natural question that suggests itself for consideration is, Whether there is not room for a few more sheep in all the vast area of unsettled Tasmania? Surely ten millions of acres cannot ALL be barren.

* In 1861 the agricultural stock of Tasmania consisted of 22,128 horses, 87,114 cattle, 1,714,498 sheep, and 39,677 pigs. The largest number of cattle ever registered as on the pastures of Tasmania were in the years 1829 and 1855; when there were 109,101 for the first-named year, and 110,304 for the latter one. Sheep were at the highest in 1852, when there were 2,219,385 in the country. Horses and pigs were never so numerous as at the present time. It is to be observed, as something like a general rule, that, when our stock returns show a large increase of sheep, there is pretty sure to be a falling off in cattle, and the converse. Thus, in 1852, when there were so many sheep, only 68,911 cattle were registered; and in 1855, when our herds were largest, there were only 1,835,902 sheep on the pastures of Tasmania.

and unsuited for settlement. It is indeed known that, beyond the great central water-shed, there are vast plains cut off from settlement by about three dense but narrow thickets, which, I should think, might be penetrated at a cost of about £1000. Then would nearly a million of acres of perfectly clear land be thrown open to inspection, and, very possibly, to occupation also. These plains, though inferior and producing only a coarse herbage, would possibly support sheep at the rate of one to ten acres. If this should prove true, a little expansion would be given to trade at once. Again, reliable report speaks of extensive tracts of fair grass land (the property of the public,) in the north-west quarter of the Island; lying just outside the estates of the Van Diemen's Land Company, which might possibly be turned to good account.

These pastures must not be closed for ever from observation, nor wholly neglected because they are of an inferior quality. I submit that we cannot afford to reject inferior pastures. If we did so, a third of our stock must be got rid of at once, for on such pastures that proportion at least is supported. The necessities of the country demand their investigation. They have lain hidden too long; and, unless we desire the wool trade to remain for ever at its present level, a push must be made to pass the boundary behind, which so much lies hidden that must be exposed to observation.

Such a track as should be cut (say a dozen feet wide) would enable the pioneers of settlement to penetrate a vast country, whose reports, if at all favorable, would be the signal for an immediate movement towards it.

The tracts of country above referred to are, I know, none of the best, and considerable losses of stock would doubtless occur there as at all our far-away pastures; but which losses I am perfectly certain arise much more from the carelessness—the criminal carelessness—of shepherds in charge, than from severity of climate, vermin, or any other cause.

I have had greater opportunities than most persons of learning the habits of the shepherds on the outlying pastures of Tasmania (which is a very great deal more than their masters can say, who visit them far too rarely), and I am positive that four-fifths of every day is passed by them either by the fire-side or in wandering about from one hut to another, or in doing anything rather than minding their own proper business, while their flocks are straying, they neither know nor care very much, where.

Small wonder then that we have to go abroad for some of the stock we consume, when these fellows lose irretrievably many thousands of sheep every year, which perish in scrubs, amongst rocks, swamps, and mountain ravines, where those in charge have neither the energy to follow them, nor the ability to extricate them if they had.

It would, perhaps, be following the subject too far to show how a constantly expanding agriculture is affecting branches of trade that are only connected with it in a secondary degree, such, for example, as malt and malt liquor, which are declining to a speedy extinction (it may be fairly hoped) with a greater rapidity than most persons are aware of. I shall, however, be allowed to say, that the importations of malt have fallen in five years from £15,122 to £5422, while that of malt liquor has sunk from £44,884 to £21,651 in the same space.

In the importations of candles, tallow, and soap, there are also sensible abatements; and in leather, not only a large falling off of foreign supplies, but a good export of the same is taking place, which last year very nearly reached £14,000.

Any further information that may be required on the subject of agriculture in Tasmania, not touched on in this Preface, must be sought in the two Tables that follow at the end of it, such as,—the weight of crop of each year, the average it gives to each individual; as also the yield of several of the minor articles of agricultural produce which do not very greatly affect the condition or trade in the Colony, and which I have passed over without discussion.

THE LAND GAZETTE.

VOL. I.

TUESDAY, JULY 1, 1862.

No. 3.

UNOCCUPIED LANDS OF TASMANIA.

Survey Office, Hobart Town, Tasmania.

I HAVE been directed by the Honourable the Executive of Tasmania to prepare and submit for general information, an Abstract of the principal clauses of "The Waste Lands Act" of Tasmania, which is herewith.

It has, however, occurred to me, that the Abstract in question will be more acceptable if it be accompanied by some account of its operation, given in the shape of statistics, that have been derived from the records of this office; in order that those at a distance from Tasmania may form their own opinions of the utility and success of our Lands Act, which I accordingly furnish along with some information on land matters generally.

But before entering into these details, it may be interesting for purposes of comparison, to take a glance at the strides that occupation had made before our Lands Bill was passed, which was in the beginning of 1858, or fifty-four years after the foundation of the Colony; which, rapid as they sometimes were, were not more satisfactory than now.

So long as the system of making free grants to immigrants remained in force (from 1804 to 1831), they flocked to Tasmania in very considerable numbers, so much so, indeed, that by the end of the latter year they had absorbed no less an area than 2,054,238 acres, whereof 1,952,220 were disposed of in free grants, and 102,018 acres by sale. This rapid alienation of our Waste Lands was, however, very considerably checked in the beginning of 1832, by the abrogation of the regulation that gave land to the immigrant. Henceforward our lands were disposed of by sale alone, except to military men, who for several years afterwards received land gratis, on account of past services, and to some few others entitled to secondary grants, &c. During the period that elapsed from the commencement of this change up to the passing of our Lands Bill, in the beginning of 1858—a term of 26 years—only 609,140 acres were sold. In the same space there were also granted 155,310 acres, which, added to 4811 granted at uncertain dates, to 16,124 acres of town lands sold and to 132,485 acres purchased under the Pre-emptive Right Regulations that are not yet paid for, make a total of 2,972,108 acres.

Of granted town lands there is nothing like a perfect registry extant; their area is, however, believed to be about 6250 acres, which, added to the above, along with 331,791 acres granted and sold since the passing of "The Waste Lands Act," give a grand total of 3,310,149 acres that were in private possession on the 30th April last.*

The passing of "The Waste Lands Act" gave new life to the country; and the yearly disposal of more than 87,000 acres (calculated on the 3 years ending 31st December, 1861) attests its success. This rapid progression is, of course, mainly due to the abandonment of the unwise system of prompt payments (except that mode of settlement be agreeable to the buyer, or when the amount of purchase does not reach forty pounds); and though the number of purchasers who have bought on credit are 1594, yet only 58 of them have defaulted, or in the proportion of 1 to 27½.†

* The figures given above will not be found identical with those published in preceding editions of the Land Gazette, which is accounted for by a new enumeration of lands granted and sold having been undertaken for these Returns, which has produced different results from anything heretofore published. At the same time there is reason to believe that in early years the records of this Department were not very perfectly kept, so that it is not improbable that at some future period a further correction of the above figures will be made, when the Land Gazette is again revised.

† In five of these cases the default was caused by death.

The mode of payment allowed by the Act (which for town lands is spread over three, and for country lands over eight years), is fully explained in the 25th and 26th clauses of the Abstract of the Act, and to which especial attention is directed.

I shall make no comments on the success of our present mode of settling our waste lands, but will leave the following figures to speak for themselves, which show the yearly spread of occupation from the beginning of 1858 up to the 30th April, 1862:—

The foregoing details will be enough to show the superior efficacy of a sensible enactment of a legislature composed of persons interested in the well being of the country over the regulations framed by mere office-men which preceded it; and which latter, though generally less restrictive, were, nevertheless, less suited to the wants of the people. Successful, however, as the enactment has been, it would be doubly so if the whole waste lands of the Colony were open to private selection. But as so much "worthless land," as it is the fashion to call all that is under rental (about a couple of millions of acres), is exempted from the operation of the 19th section, it is far less effective than it would be but for this circumstance; for it is a fact that before the Lands Bill was understood, we used to receive twice as many applications as we could comply with, the rejected ones being those of persons who wanted to effect purchases of portions of the worthless land in question. Take, for example, those received at the Survey Office in 1858, and I find that there were 840 of them applying for 112,284 acres, whereof we were forced to reject no less than 457, covering 60,213 acres. Of course, as the Act is getting better understood, these mistakes are less frequent than formerly; but still the old hankering to get into the forbidden territory repeatedly shows itself.

Having now explained the progress of the occupation of Tasmania since its foundation in 1804 up to the end of 1860, I will now take the liberty of giving an outline description of the country itself. In doing so, however, I shall go into no such details as the enumeration of our towns, bays, lakes, mountains, rivers, or the like; but shall confine myself strictly to such descriptions as bear upon the character of the surface soil, and of the forests of Tasmania, which I take it are the chief subjects of interest to intending immigrants, for whose information I have undertaken the compilation of this paper.

Tasmania being mountainous in many parts, it will be seen that a considerable proportion of it is unfit for cultivation. Of the thirteen and a-half millions of acres that still remain at the disposal of the State, nearly half of them, I should say, are of this description, though a fair quantity of the same are suited for pasture. In the remaining half, there is a large acreage of good land, much of which is eminently superior. The researches of our surveyors are continually disclosing new and extensive tracts—in districts hitherto but little visited—the soil of which, I believe, to be second to none in the world in point of excellence. In the northern counties in particular, great activity has prevailed amongst these gentlemen in the examination of their districts, from which the best results are declaring themselves; such as the active progress of their occupation, the planting of homesteads, and the commencement, almost daily, of new clearings, notwithstanding the fact that those quarters in which settlement is advancing most rapidly are covered with forests of an extraordinarily vigorous growth. But the class by whom these thickly-wooded lands are being chiefly taken up—the downright hard-working class—value them on account of this circumstance, in which they see nothing but proof of the fertility of the land which produces such trees, and the assurance that the cost and labour of preparing it for cultivation will soon be repaid them.

Having elsewhere detailed the mode of obtaining land in Tasmania, it may not be uninteresting that I should give some description of these forests into which civilization is now penetrating; that is, just as they present themselves to observation before settlement has reached them. To this end I can hardly do better than make a few extracts from a recent Report of mine, compiled from notes taken on the spot, for the Executive Government, and which was afterwards published by an Order of the Parliament. The extensive tracts of good land described in the Report in question, though comprised in a single county, are fair samples of the others that front on Bass's Straits; that is, on the long line of coast that lies between Cape Portland on the eastern, and Cape Grim on the western, extremities of the northern shore line of Tasmania.

"The good soils of the district in question are almost uniformly of a red colour, and are of very considerable depth, varying from about four to eight feet in thickness. Their capacity for production will be pretty well understood from the statement that, notwithstanding the very rude and primitive fashion in which they are generally cleared and cultivated, they will yield forty or fifty bushels of wheat to the acre.

"It may be worth while remarking that the fine soils of these districts are less often found in the great valleys than on the undulating table lands that lie between the rivers.

"The lands described above are now, as most probably they have ever been, covered with very heavy forests of gum trees; and also with a close undergrowth of sassafras, musk, dogwood, fern trees, and scores of unnamed trees and shrubs, to whose decay the vast accumulations of rich red soil that cover the wide surface we have now under notice are doubtless mainly ascribable. With the favourable experiences we have had during the last seven years of the value of the woods of such forests, it is needless to attract attention to the fact here; and I merely introduce the subject of our 'forests' into this report now, to show that, vast as they are, and seemingly insuperable obstacles to the occupation of the districts they cover, they are not now looked on as such very serious impediments to settlement as they were in bygone times, before the present cheap and comparatively easy style of clearing came into fashion. The system of 'scrubbing,' by which the underwood alone is removed, and of 'ringing,' whereby the larger trees are simply killed by cutting through the bark and sapwood all round, does not cost over £4 per acre; the operation of destroying all that ever is destroyed extending over portions of three years.

"I have been at a little pains to collect the details of cost of preparing heavy forest land for the plough, whereof the following is the result:" (that is, for the Northern Counties, for in the Southern ones of Buckingham and Kent it is at least treble the estimate below.)

FIRST YEAR.		£	s.	d.
Scrubbing, per acre, i.e. falling all trees not over a foot through, and ringing all large standing ones .		1	10	0
Burning off same.....		0	10	0
		£2 0 0
SECOND YEAR.
Burning off stubbles and grubbing up all small stumps left after last year's operations, which fits the land for ploughing		1	10	0
THIRD YEAR.
Removing fallen logs, grubbing roots, &c. &c.....		0	10	0
		£4 0 0

"If there be any who are under the idea that there is the slightest reluctance to occupy such lands as I have described, on account of the extraordinary forests they produce, they may be easily convinced of their error by referring to many official returns which the Survey Department has prepared for the information of the Parliament, which will show that it is in the Northern Counties (where the choice lands are almost invariably very thickly timbered) that settlement is proceeding the most rapidly, and which will show how favourably they are thought of by the great majority of selectors, who regard such forests as the certain indicators of the good quality of the soil. Dogwood 'scrubs,' so very abundant, are in the greatest request."

About eighty acres of such land, or even less, is ample for any working family.

"It would be rash to hazard any conjectures as to the precise capacity of our heavy forest lands for the support of population; but that they are capable of maintaining very many thousands of families will never be doubted by any one who has even a cursory acquaintance with them."

* During the seven years that preceded the year 1860 the value of our timber exports was £1,277,113; besides this, vast quantities were consumed at home in building and fencing.

The examinations that are now going forward in the heavily-wooded portions of the southern counties of Kent and Buckingham are revealing most gratifying facts; namely, the existence of large tracts of fine forest land, hitherto hidden from inspection by the want of roads to them, but which I hope will be laid out and cleared during the present summer.* Of the results that are likely to follow this measure, for which our Parliament has made a very considerable money grant,† there is, I believe, but one opinion throughout the Colony; namely, that the lands they will lead to and through will be taken up almost as rapidly as they are made approachable.

The old settlements of the Colony lie almost entirely in the Midland and South Eastern Counties, their extent being pretty nearly 3,000,000 acres. Here also lie the great bulk of our leased lands, of about a couple of millions of acres more, which are exempted from the operation of the 19th clause of the Act, and which, if required for sale, as large portions often are, can only be bought at auction, a six months' notice being first given to the lessee that they are required for sale. These fine counties (in which the trap rocks prevail) are composed chiefly either of rich open downs, or of open grassy forest land, and constitute the elite of our sheep pastures. They are generally undulatory. The crown lands of these districts are in high demand, and yield a revenue at present of about £23,000 a year, the Government charge being fixed at £1 the 100 acres in the generality of our lettings.

These leased lands, though they may be bought at auction, can hardly be recommended to the immigrant; not that they do not contain large areas of soils that may be classed either as fair or superior, but they are very generally in the hands of large landholders, often nearly as rich as Croesus, who are not a very desirable class of persons to have to encounter in an auction room; and who may be most safely reckoned on as opponents in the event of their leased lands being put up by any one. Moreover, the waste lands that they occupy are generally so mixed up and fenced in along with their own private properties, which usually adjoin, that it is often a matter of great difficulty for any one, except the district surveyors, to tell what is crown land and what is not; and even they have often much trouble to make out the lines of distinction on the ground. On the whole, therefore, I do not recommend the Midland Counties to the stranger settler, or, at least, not very strongly. Immigrants to Tasmania who desire to settle amongst us as landholders should land here with at least £150 or £200 in their pockets; which will enable them to establish themselves and families on their locations both easily and comfortably.

A location of eighty acres would cost as under, if bought privately at this office on credit:—

Leaving a balance of £76 16s. to be paid off in 8 equal annual instalments of £9 12s. each, to which 10s.

* About 15 roads, of 186 miles, are now being opened up in the Northern Counties; and 5 roads, of about 45 miles, in the Southern Counties.—1st June, 1861.

is to be added to the last year's payment as the cost of the grant deed. The total payment on 80 acres being £105 5s.

The soils of the western and south-western counties of Tasmania are chiefly formed from the decompositions of impure quartz rocks. These counties contain vast marshy plains (as we call open land) separated by long rocky ridges. The herbage of this quarter of the island is very coarse in its natural state, but improves by burning and stocking. A strong desire is now setting in to occupy them,* which would soon assume large dimensions, were it not that the means of reaching them are very imperfect indeed. The increasing necessities of the pastoral classes for room will probably induce our Parliament to provide roads to and through them; but, until then, they must be considered as closed against settlement, except a comparatively small portion of them, which lies about twenty miles west and north west from Lake Echo, which may be considered the central point of Tasmania.

Of the numerous islands of Bass's Straits (which all belong to Tasmania) I can say but little, our information concerning them being altogether too slight to enable me to describe them. They cover about one million of acres of surface, and are mostly all leased at nearly nominal rentals. The area of such as are thus occupied has not been included in the leasing returns referred to in former parts of this letter.

I think I have now said everything necessary for the information of persons interested in the settlement of the lands of Tasmania. I might, indeed, if I chose, extend this paper to a far greater length than it has already reached, by going over those well considered subjects, which are still so agreeable to the literati of Tasmania; namely, of the mildness of our climate, the excellence of a few of our roads, the capacity of our harbours, the magnificence of our scenery, and such like; but, having performed all that I undertook to do, namely, to describe the Waste Lands of Tasmania, and to detail the means of obtaining them, I shall discuss no other topic.

J. E. CALDER, Surveyor-General.

ABSTRACT of the PRINCIPAL CLAUSES of The Waste Lands Act of Tasmania, prepared by J. E. CALDER, Esquire, Surveyor-General and Commissioner of Crown Lands :—

CLASSIFICATION OF LANDS.

Clause 7 Divides the Waste Lands into three classes; namely,—the first class or Town Lands to comprise all lands that lie within the limits of any existing town or village, or which may exist hereafter; as also all lands that lie within five miles of the nearest boundary of either Hobart Town or Launceston. The second class or Agricultural Lands to comprise all lands which the Governor in Council shall proclaim to be "Agricultural Divisions," or which the Commissioner may consider suitable for cultivation. The third class or Pastoral Lands to comprise all lands that are suitable for pasture only.

LOWEST UPSET PRICE.

Clause 9 Fixes the lowest upset price that shall be charged for waste lands at ten and twenty shillings per acre; namely,—ten shillings for any waste lands that have never been held under a grazing licence; and twenty shillings for all other waste lands, excepting town lands. But when any waste lands have been offered for sale by auction, and not sold, and have afterwards been exposed to sale for six months by private contract, and are still unsold, the Commissioner may then lower the upset price.

* 81,520 acres are leased there now, and we hold applications for 158,555 acres more, which we might increase greatly if we liked; but we are obliged to discourage them on account of the present impossibility of getting the rivers, which they front on, surveyed.

SALE BY AUCTION.

Clause 10 Directs that all waste lands may be sold by auction.

(This does not, of course, apply to lands held under the "quiet enjoyment" clause of the Regulations of 1851, about 655,000 acres.)

Clause 11 Directs that all town lands shall be sold by auction only.

Clause 12 Forbids the sale of any unsurveyed land.

Clause 13 Fixes the maximum area of auction lots as follows :—

Agricultural lands 160 acres.

Pastoral lands 1280 acres.

Clause 14 Directs the Commissioner to advertise in the Gazette the time and place of all Government land sales; and to describe every lot to be sold, and to state its upset price also; these to be continued (in the Gazette) from one to three months.

Clause 15. Commissioner to fix the upset price of all lands to be sold by auction; and in the cases of lands that have been offered for sale, but which were not then sold, he may alter the upset prices of them at any future sale, either increasing or lowering them according to circumstances; but he is never to fix the prices below those named in Clause 9; viz., ten and twenty shillings the acre.

Clause 16. No lands shall be sold by auction below the upset price.

SALE BY PRIVATE CONTRACT.

Clause 17. Land may be sold by private contract.

Clause 18. Within 21 days after every auction sale of Waste Lands of the 2nd and 3rd classes, the Commissioner shall make out a list of the lands unsold at such sales, with also their upset prices, and shall publish the same in the Gazette, prefixing a notice that after fourteen days the same will be open to sale by private contract to any person whatever at the upset price, and that they will continue thus open to private offer for one year after the auction, unless again advertised for sale by auction. But if more than one applicant offer at the same time for the same lot, it will not then be sold to either of them, (privately at least), but will be put up to auction again as soon as possible.

Clause 19. The Commissioner (after the receipt of the survey-fee and the completion of the survey) may sell, by private contract, one plot of land to any person whatever for one pound the acre; no such plot, however, to exceed 320 acres.

Town lands, lands required for irrigation or other public purposes, lands that were held under a grazing or occupation licence on the 1st December, 1857, and lands under advertisement for sale by auction, are exempt from the operation of this clause.

No person who has once selected to the extent of 320 acres privately under the 19th Section can do so again.

(This clause, which has worked so favourably, has done so, nevertheless, under very adverse circumstances, as its operation is confined to so small a section of the Territory, the following classes of lands not being reached by it :—

	Acres.
In private possession before 1858, about.....	2,879,448
Held under the "quiet enjoyment" right	655,000
Other ordinary land under lease on the 1st December, 1857.....	1,143,157
Islands in Bass's Straits under lease at the same date, about.....	1,000,000
Towns and Government Reserves, about.....	274,000
Unsettled Waste Lands Districts, about.....	5,000,000

Clause 21. The Grant-deed not to be issued nor possession to be given of selected land until it has been surveyed, and until the purchase-money has been paid, except where credit has been taken, when possession may be had on payment of deposit.

CONDITIONS OF PAYMENT OF PURCHASE-MONEY.

Clause 23 Allows credit to purchasers by auction, if demanded at time of sale. If, however, credit be not required, the terms of payment are then as follows:—That one-fifth of the purchase-money be paid down at the time of sale and the remainder in one month, otherwise both the land and the deposit paid on it will be forfeited.

Clause 24 Directs that purchasers of land by private contract may either pay cash at the time of signing the contract, or, at their option, take credit on the terms hereafter mentioned.

Clause 25 Publishes the terms of credit allowed to purchasers of town lands; namely, a sum equal to one-tenth of the sale price of the land having been added to that price, the whole shall constitute the cost thereof; the purchaser shall then deposit one-fourth part of the whole at the time of sale, and shall contract to pay, and shall pay, the remainder in three equal annual instalments; the first of which three shall be paid at the expiration of one year after the sale.

(Example.—Where the sale price amounts to (say) £100,—

TOWN LANDS.

One-tenth added for credit (£100÷10)	110	0	0
Deposit at sale one-fourth of the whole: one-fourth of £110	27	10	0
Balance by three instalments	82	10	0
Amount of each instalment	27	10	0

Clause 26 Publishes the terms of credit to be allowed for Agricultural or Pastoral Lands; namely, a sum equal to one-fifth of the sale price of the land being added to that price, the whole shall constitute the cost thereof; the purchaser shall then deposit one-fifth part of the whole at the time of purchase, and shall contract to pay, and shall pay, the remainder in eight equal annual instalments; the first of which must be paid at the expiration of one year from the time of sale or signing the contract.

(Example.—Where the sale price amounts to (say) £100,—

AGRICULTURAL AND PASTORAL LANDS.

One-fifth added for credit, £100÷20	120	0	0
Deposit at sale one-fifth of the whole: one-fifth of £120	24	0	0
Balance by eight instalments	96	0	0
Amount of each instalment	12	0	0

Clause 27. In default of the payment of any instalment, the land and all previous payments shall be forfeited where the delay has reached sixty days.

Clause 28. In default of payment, the Commissioner to advertise that the land is to be sold by auction.

The Commissioner to buy in the land at a price not exceeding the unpaid balance and the deposit.

If, however, the land should sell for more than the unpaid balance and the deposit, the surplus will then be paid over to the original purchaser on the Warrant of the Governor.

If the land be bought in, it shall then become ordinary waste land, and shall be dealt with as though it had never been sold.

Clause 29. Allows a credit purchaser to pay off the purchase-money at any time he pleases during the term allowed for payment, where there has been no default in the payment of any instalment.

Clause 30. Disallows credit on any purchase where the price is under Forty Pounds.

(Every lot for which credit is claimed must have cost £40. It cannot be demanded for two or more lots whose united value makes up the required sum.)

Clause 31. Forbids the transfer of any lot so long as any of the purchase-money remains unpaid, unless the Commissioner gives his consent in writing.

A purchaser of waste land becoming insolvent before completing a purchase, to forfeit the land and all preceding payments made on it. The forfeited land to be dealt with as ordinary waste land.

(The Waste Lands Act comprises 52 clauses; but those that are omitted from this Abstract are of trivial interest to the Immigrant, and have therefore been unnoticed.)

SURVEY OFFICE.

THE following Lots of surveyed Crown Land are now on Sale at the Survey Office, Hobart Town, under the 18th Section of The Waste Lands Act, (that is, privately to the first Applicant), with the prices affixed at which they will be sold.

Plans of the Lots may be seen at the various Police Offices throughout the Colony, and any other information that may be required concerning them may be obtained either by personal or written application to this Office, and in cases where the Surveyors have given official Reports, copies of them can be furnished to intending purchasers.

The dates when the several Lots became available under the 18th Section are inserted at the head of each List, which has been corrected up to the 30th June, 1862. Possession of the Lots will be given to the purchasers two months after the date of sale, except in those cases where particular dates are assigned.

NOTE.—Selectors of Land will learn, from the following Circular, that in Tasmania every pains is taken by the Survey Department to facilitate stranger Immigrants in making their Land selections. The order is strictly enforced.

CIRCULAR TO DISTRICT SURVEYORS.

Survey Department,

SIR, 1st March, 1861.

I desire to call your most particular attention to my Notice of the 28th ultimo, which appears in an Advertiser addressed to you, and which has been forwarded for insertion in the Victorian newspapers.

You will probably recollect that, in my Notice to Selectors, dated 10th November, 1859, it was most distinctly stated that it was one of the chief duties of the District Surveyors to afford every information and facility to persons in search of land, and that any Surveyor neglecting this duty imperilled his continuance in the employment of this Department. It was also intimated that such assistance should be rendered without the Surveyor making any charge.

I have, on more than one occasion, pointed out the necessity that exists for your promoting, in every possible way, the occupation of your District. I must again strongly impress this upon you, and request that you will render a cheerful and willing obedience to my recent notice, and lose no time in replying to any communication you may receive, not only from persons residing in this Colony, but in the neighbouring ones.

If I discover that any District Surveyor refuses advice and reasonable assistance to intending Selectors, the only alternative left open to me is to supply his place with some one who will have the settlement of his District at heart.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your obedient Servant,

J. E. CALDER, Surveyor-General.

CORRIGENDA.

In first page Land Gazette, second column, line 7 from the top, for 132,485 acres, read "131,365" acres: in line 9, for 2,972,108 acres, read "2,970,988" acres: and in line 14, for 3,310,149 acres, read "3,309,029" acres.

NOTE.—The Grants are carried into those years when they were actually approved of, without reference to the dates of the Location Orders, except in cases where no other dates could be discovered.

Since the year 1853, the Preëemptive Right Lands which have been paid for are included in the totals of the Lands sold.

* In this quantity are comprised 366,425 acres (in nine Grants), the property of the Van Diemen's Land Company, which, though located several years before, were not finally approved until this year.

† This sum includes £5,869 6s., being interest on the "Ross Reserve" sales.

J. E. CALDER, Surveyor-General.
