To Whom It May Concern,

It's as simple as this:-

How would you feel if your mother rang, said she thinks she's having a heart attack, she's rung the ambulance and you're on the opposite side of the river.

Our health system is in crisis.

I know that I can get my mother to the hospital before the ambulance arrives after consulting with them, and do so.

I know the system is so flawed I don't let it get to the stage where:-

A. An unreasonable amount of time is spent for an ambulance.

B. It's ramped when it gets there.

Offer the paramedics contracts as the pressure on the understaffed ambulance service is reflected in lives lost.

More funding,
