

King Island Volunteer Ambulance Officers – Conditions

Ms DOW question to MINISTER for HEALTH, MENTAL HEALTH and WELLBEING

My constituent question is from Chris on King Island. Chris asks: Minister, are you aware that volunteer ambulance officers currently reside in the garage at the local police station, where they have a chair to sit on and no toilet or changing facilities? Minister, do you think these are adequate conditions for our hard-working volunteer ambulance officers who provide a critical and vital community service in the absence of a permanent paramedic? Minister, when will our volunteer ambulance officers on King Island be given adequate facilities to operate out of, and the dignity and respect that they deserve?
