14. General and Local Inspection.—On summarising Appendix D. it will be seen that 3802 visits have been made to the Public Schools during the year, of which 118 were made by the Inspector; 1455 by Members of the Local Boards, and 989 by other persons; and 945 visits were made by Ministers of Church of England, 172 by Ministers of the Church of Rome, 101 by Ministers of Church of Scotland, 14 by Wesleyan Ministers, and 8 by Ministers of other Denominations for the purpose of imparting Religious Instruction.

15. Exhibitions from Public to Superior Schools.—In the month of June we caused an Examination for Exhibitions from Public to Superior Schools to be held: 22 Candidates presented themselves; and on the recommendation of the Examiners, the Revs. Arthur Davenport and Francis Hudspeth, we awarded an exhibition of the value of £16 13s. 4d. per annum, tenable for four years from the 1st July, 1872, to each of the under-mentioned Candidates:—

Timothy Paul Molloy, age 13 years, Public School, Goulburn-street, Hobart Town.

Thomas Meredith Lipscombe, age 13 years, Public School, Sandy Bay.

Arthur George Clarence Hawthorn, age 12 years and 8 months, Public School, Battery Point, Hobart Town.

John Singleton Clemons, age 10 years and 3 months, Public School, Evandale.

Evans John Taylor, age 11 years and 3 months, Public School, New Town.

Charles Lawson Snowden, age 11 years and 1 month, Public School, Battery Point, Hobart Town.

The Examiners in closing their Report observe—

“We are highly satisfied with the results of this Examination. The attainments of the six foremost Candidates are considerably greater than last year, or at any former Examination; the average of their marks being a little over 1000 as compared with 900, which last number was the largest average before the recent Examination. And though some of the boys were ill prepared in one or more subjects, there were few conspicuous failures; and no less than eighteen of the Candidates obtained a sufficient number of marks to reach the standard qualifying them for an Exhibition. No Candidate failed to obtain the number of marks, one third of the maximum, entitling to mention in the Table of Marks.”

“One probable reason of the general superiority of the Candidates this year lies in the fact that, under the new regulation concerning age, this has been to most of them their last opportunity of competing.”

A Statement of the Expenditure under this head will be found in Appendix G.

16. Furneaux Group.—From the Returns furnished by Mr. Henry Collis, the Schoolmaster for the children on the Islands comprising Furneaux Group, it is shown that there are 19 boys and 26 girls,—making a total of 45 children under instruction who have attended on an average 102 days each. Mr. Collis has established Four Schools; viz.—Badger Island, 24 children; Long Beach, Cape Barren Island, 23 children; Chappell Island, 21 children; Cape Sir John, Barren Island, 19 children. Many of the children attend two or more of the Schools.

We are in receipt of a most satisfactory Report from the Local Board for these Schools, in which it is stated that the School-house erected on Badger Island from the materials furnished by the Government is in good order and equal to the requirements of the place; and that efforts are being made locally to purchase materials and build a School-room on Cape Sir John Island. Mrs. Collis assists her husband in the duties of the Schools by carrying on one School while her husband is engaged at another. In concluding their Report the Local Board add, that “the School as established up to the present time cannot fail to be regarded as a decided success, and its success may be fairly traced to Mr. Collis’ untiring exertions.”

A Statement of the Expenditure under this head will be found in Appendix H.

17. The Report of the Chief Inspector of Schools is annexed. See Appendix I.

18. We submit this as our Report on the Public Schools for the year ending 31st December, 1872, and we have caused our corporate Seal to be affixed hereto.

APPENDIX I.

GENERAL Report for 1872, by T. STEPHENS, Esq., M.A., Chief Inspector of Schools.

Hobart Town, 5th April, 1873.

GENTLEMEN,

I HAVE the honour to present my General Report for the year ended 31st December, 1872.

The result of the year's work and the circumstances under which it has been prosecuted have been in many respects discouraging and unsatisfactory, as was to be expected when the duties formerly divided between two Inspectors were entrusted to one. An exceptionally wet season, the most unfavourable for purposes of inspection that I have known during an experience of sixteen years, has aggravated the ordinary difficulties, and by materially reducing the attendance of children on the days of examination, has prevented the realisation of results which could be deemed satisfactory by the Board, the Inspector, or the Teachers themselves. The Inspector, however, must travel in all weathers, if his work is to be done at all.

INSPECTION.

Early in the year, in a special report, I drew attention to the fact that it would be impossible for one Inspector to adhere to the systematic plan of inspection and examination which I had framed with the approval of the Board, and carried out for some years in the Southern District. I remarked that it would be my chief duty, unless otherwise instructed, to make myself thoroughly acquainted with the general management and standard of instruction in those Schools which had been under the supervision of a separate Inspector, and in those which have been recently established under inexperienced Teachers. The special visits which have to be made from time to time for the purpose of reporting on particular Schools or Districts would come next in importance, and the remainder of the time available for purposes of inspection would be devoted to Schools in the Southern Districts. The accomplishment of this work was attained more fully than I could have expected in circumstances of such difficulty. The number of regular visits of inspection, including generally a thorough examination of all the children, was 91, and 96 separate Schools were visited. A number of other visits, more or less brief, were made where circumstances did not allow or require a lengthened inspection, making up a total of 137 visits. A few days were also devoted to localities where the re-opening of old or the establishment of new Schools was desirable. The number of children present at my examinations was 2232, but I may remark that no numerical statement can convey any notion of the expenditure of time and labour represented by these figures, for a much larger number would have been examined with comparative ease if my time had been devoted to the chief centres of population instead of the widely scattered bush settlements. About 60 Schools were fully reported on; some others were made the subject of special communications; and the inspection of the rest, in which no change had become appreciable since the date of former reports, was noted in my weekly returns. The examination of Teachers and Candidates received the same attention as formerly, and a large amount of the ordinary miscellaneous business incidental to my office was accomplished. Much, however, of nearly equal importance was wholly or partially neglected. The Teachers' Returns furnish some information which is important to the Inspector, though useless and almost unintelligible to any one else; but for such matters as these I had no time available, and not much for correspondence with Teachers on details of School management and instruction. I have seldom had opportunities of supervising the planning or alteration of School premises, the Board probably being of opinion that I had already work enough on hand; but the result is that I am occasionally compelled to report the existence of an inconvenient arrangement when it is too late to suggest a remedy.

The results of inspection and examination have been briefly summarised in my separate Reports. It will perhaps have been remarked that I have had to report an unusual number of cases of deviation from important rules, and of flagrant incorrectness of School Registers. It is probable that some of these irregularities have had their origin in a habit of negligence, but it is difficult to admit even this excuse in all cases; and it is evident that wherever there is a disposition to deceive, or to evade the observance of the Board's regulations, this tendency is likely to be encouraged by the prospect of greater freedom from official supervision. From inquiries which I have made, I can confidently state that the local authorities do not, as a rule, hold themselves responsible for the accuracy of the School records, or the faithful observance of the Board's regulations, and it would be unreasonable to expect that any such responsibility could be undertaken by gentlemen holding an honorary office with very limited powers. But it is due to the great majority of Teachers to say that they need no certificate of faithfulness, and that for honesty of purpose, and the discharge of duty to the best of their several abilities, they need not fear comparison with the members of their profession in any other country.

INSTRUCTION.

The circumstances referred to in the first part of this Report, and other reasons which need not be specified, prevent me from making any general remarks on the absolute or relative standard of efficiency, or the progress in the subjects of elementary instruction. The official programme of instruction is still well adapted to Schools of every class, and has already done some good service, but the best machinery is useless without a motive power and proper regulation, and it is impossible that even the present standard of general efficiency can be maintained unless means are provided for enforcing strict compliance with its provisions. There are still Teachers who scarcely understand the rules of School organisation and management, and there are others who have yet to learn that a satisfactory standard can only be attained by paying special attention to the junior classes, and by requiring thoroughness and accuracy in every branch of school-work from the most elementary stages upwards. That which is chiefly required from the official superintendent of instruction in Schools which are under the management of untrained Teachers, pertains more to the office of a Training Master than of an Inspector, as the terms are generally understood. It is of very little use merely to remark that the reading is wanting in correctness, fluency, and expression; that the writing is far below the proper standard in all essential points; that the teaching of arithmetic is not based upon principles, and that the work is mechanical and inaccurate; and so on with other branches of instruction. Without the means of showing what is meant by a satisfactory standard, and of affording instruction in the methods which are best adapted to secure this standard in the special circumstances of the case, the Inspector must often leave the School with a conviction that the same criticism will have to be repeated on his next visit with very little modification.

The Free School which was opened in Hobart Town under special regulations, as an experiment, has been decidedly successful as far as success was possible. I know of no other similar School or Scheme which has so strictly maintained its intended character, or in which the benefit has been so fairly limited to the class for which it was designed. Success in such cases mainly depends upon the management; and it is a simple act of justice to the conductors of the Free School to add, that they have brought to their difficult and discouraging work such qualifications of tact, perseverance, and ability as are not often found in combination, and that it could not have been placed in better hands. Institutions of a similar class are urgently needed in Launceston,—but it appears almost useless to look for their establishment under the Public School system, until the action of the Board in promoting the education of poor children is made more independent of voluntary co-operation, and the fortuitous concurrence of favourable circumstances.

It will have been perceived from these remarks, and previous reports, that the Public Schools, though they show a vast improvement on those of the early years of the rule of the Board of Education, are not so generally satisfactory in the essentials of education as to call for any extension of the course of instruction in an upward direction. They may eventually be so far improved as to afford ample means of obtaining sound elementary instruction, which may serve in favourable circumstances for an excellent introduction to a course of higher education elsewhere, but if more than this be demanded under the present system;—if, without any general increase being made in the teaching staff, and in the improvement of its quality, the Teachers of Public Schools are stimulated to aim at the general instruction of the many, and the special instruction of a few, they will in most cases either do both imperfectly, or neglect one altogether. I have watched with some anxiety the operation of the scheme of Exhibitions from Public to Superior Schools, which certainly have a dangerous tendency, though it may perhaps be counteracted by judicious administration. As I have already referred to this matter in a special Report, I will only now enumerate the chief grounds of objection. These Exhibitions cannot excite any general competition among the Teachers of Public Schools, because only a very few are supplied with the material out of which successful candidates can be produced. They cannot excite any general emulation among the children, because nine-tenths, or thereabouts, must necessarily leave School before they have reached a standard of proficiency which would enable them to compete with any chance of success.* The preparation of intending candidates cannot be conducted as an integral part of the regular School work, because the subjects of examination have no necessary correspondence with the Public School routine; and the special instruction must be given, either during School hours to the great disadvantage of the rest of the School, or in the Teacher's private time. To the latter plan there are many obvious objections. As a matter of fact, it is quite possible for a Teacher to send up annually a select number of Candidates for Exhibitions, and yet neglect the mass of the children under his care; and the direct tendency of the scheme, if it could be made generally attractive, would favour such a result. Up to the present time the competition has been confined to a very few Schools, and it is only right to admit that some of those Teachers who have sent up candidates have at the same time maintained a high standard of efficiency throughout their Schools; but such cases are too exceptional to be quoted as arguments in favour of the continuance of the system. The conclusions which I wish to draw from the foregoing remarks are, that in the present circumstances of public instruction it is desirable that the whole weight of the influence of the Board and its Inspectors should be primarily devoted to the establishment of a thoroughly efficient standard of general instruction in the Public Schools, and to the interests of the many who need the aid of the State, rather than of the few who are in a position to help themselves; that if a special stimulus be required, this at any rate is not the best mode of applying it; and that, so long as the scheme of Exhibitions remains in force, it would be more conducive to the real interests of education if the permission to send up candidates were granted by the Board as a sort of certificate of merit, or privilege, to those Teachers only who had given satisfactory evidence of faithful discharge of duty, and the efficient conduct of a School. It will be understood that I am only referring to the lower class of Exhibitions. Those which are awarded under the direction of the Council of Education stand on a totally different footing, and might, with some slight modifications, be made to effect all that is now embraced by the two schemes, and thus remove many existing grounds of objection. It must be borne in mind that the Public Schools are attended by children from all classes in the community, and that even under the present scheme it is not possible for any boy to successfully compete for an Exhibition, whose parents are not in a position to obtain for him the means of private instruction, or who is not taken in hand, on personal grounds, by a competent instructor.

* The number of children returned in the Board's last Annual Report in the 6th or highest class gives less than one per cent., and very few even of these would be eligible as Candidates for Exhibitions.

CONCLUSION.

I regret that many parts of this Report have taken what may be considered a somewhat querulous tone, and I am anxious that this shall not be assigned to any personal motive. It is true that the physical labour involved in an attempt to discharge the functions of two Inspectors has been at times very severe, and that an increase in that class of work which is least productive of useful results, is not what one would desire after many years spent in the active work of inspection. From eight to ten hours a day are commonly given to public business of one kind or another during tours of inspection; and in one period of three weeks, the time spent either in the saddle or in the actual work of inspection was 171 hours, which, with an allowance of at least one hour a day for other business, gives an average of $10\frac{1}{2}$ hours a day for the whole period. The distance travelled on horseback during the same time was 449 miles. These, however, and similar difficulties are inseparable from the office of an Inspector of Schools, and there are many reforms which are demanded even more urgently than an increase in the staff. The chief defects in our system have been specially noted in previous Reports, and may be again classed under three heads; viz.—the want of adequate provision for the training of Teachers; the absence of local responsibility; and the want of the power of enforcing conditions or improvements which are essentially necessary. And until, by reforms in this direction, the way has been prepared for turning the work of inspection to good account, I cannot but admit that the question of the employment of two or more Inspectors is a matter of quite secondary importance.

I have the honor to be,
Your obedient Servant,

T. STEPHENS, Chief Inspector of Schools.

The Chairman and Members of the Board of Education.
