
From: Alan Cordell [mailto:alan.cordell@bigpond.com]

Sent: Friday, 13 April 2012 8:29 PM

To: Charles Casimaty

Subject: Hemp

Of course hemp should be farmed. We are so backward in Tasmania in matters such as this. Hemp would have been grown on Norfolk Island in the 18th century for rope for the Royal Navy. It was not a success there, nor were the Norfolk pines suitable for spars and masts. Our Tasmanian farmers are wonderful and will get a kick when the pulp mill gets the go ahead, as it surely will despite the traitorous green party.

Alan Cordell, Lilydale.