

Support for Primary Producers

Mr FAIRS question to MINISTER for PRIMARY INDUSTRIES and WATER

In my electorate of Bass, there are many Tasmanian families who are small agricultural producers. Many of these families are experiencing hardships and I am aware that some have been finding this season the most difficult they have faced for a long time due to a growing number of challenging conditions and increasing costs.

I know the government provides a number of different services to provide support to our people in our agricultural regions, and I am well aware of the terrific work that organisations like Rural Alive and Well and Rural Business Tasmania do in these situations.

On behalf of the farmers in my electorate, can you confirm where producers can go or call to access advice and help and find out what the options are for themselves?
