

Update on CT Scanners at Launceston General Hospital

Ms FINLAY question to MINISTER for HEALTH

Last year, your government announced new CT scanners at the LGH which were described as a game changer that would enable Tasmanians in the north to receive life-saving diagnosis more quickly and accurately. It was said at the time that new scanners would be operational in October last year. A constituent of mine has raised concerns the scanners have not been operational as planned. Are you able to confirm whether this is the case? If so, for how long the new scanners have been offline?
