

Volunteering Strategy

Mr WOOD question to MINISTER for COMMUNITY SERVICES

In January this year, you put out a call for Tasmanians to have their say on Tasmania's first volunteering strategy. Every day, Tasmanian volunteers make an incredible contribution to our communities, with the economic value of volunteering estimated to be about $12.1 billion in our state in 2023. I understand forums were held on 25 February in Ulverstone, on 27 February in Launceston, and 4 March in Hobart. There was also an online forum on 6 March. On behalf of a member of my local community, can you provide some information on the key takeaways and what is next in the development of the strategy?
